walking the railway ties to her home in Leesburg. Yesterday she ran away because of an imaginary wrong, and one night's exfor the child. Detective Cochran found her before she started, and this afternoon she returned home with her father on the train. Margaret is a pretty little child, and was neatly dressed. When she decided yesterday that she was tired of living in Leesburg she concluded she would come here. She had an aunt living in the city, whom private family she thought would be an easy matter, and so she left her home, with the full knowledge that she was going out on the wide world. She knew if she boarded the train at Leesburg, where she was known, her departure would create a little gossip, and she walked to the first station below, a distance of about three miles, and there took passage on the cars. for a position. Her application was not re-ceived, as she did not have the $1 to pay the registration fee charged. Then she sought the columns of a newspaper, and learned from them that Mr. John Espey, a resident of Northeast Washington, wanted to employ a domestic. She walked a resident of Northeast Washington, wanted to employ a domestic. She walked all the way out to his house, and presented herself as an applicant for the position. Her story was a plausible one, although Mr. Espey thought no harm would be done by making further inquiries about her. He admitted her and made her comfortable with his family for the night. This mornwith his family for the night. This morning he left home about 7:30 o'clock, and called on Inspector Boardman to see if any inquiries had been made. A message asking for Margaret's arrest had been received from Leesburg, and Mr. Espey hurried back home to see that the girl did not leave before he could restore her to her father. The girl, however, had left his house during his absence, going to the depot. Before she got started on the homeward way, as already stated, Detective Cochran took charge of her, and later delivered her into the care of her father.

Arguments Concluded. Arguments were concluded late yesterday before Chief Justice Bingham in Circuit Court No. 1 in connection with the proceeding for mandamus instituted by the United States of America in the relation of Conrad F. Grieb and John King against Justice of the Peace S. Herbert Giesy.

The case involves a test of the question whether a defendant, in a landlord and tental test of the contract case before a justice of the contract case.

ant case, before a justice of the peace, is entitled to a trial by jury.

At the conclusion of the arguments Chief Justice Bingham took the matter under advisement. He will render his decision later.

There are times when a horse knows more than a man; when instinct is superior to reason. The horse fights against being forced over the brink of a precipice which he can see in the dark but which is veiled with a man's body; it fights against carry-ing the man over the brink of the preci-pice, disease. When pice, disease. When the heart beats irreg-ularly; when there are pains in the head, are pains in the head, ringing in the ears, cough, indigestion, loss of appetite and lack of energy—some or all of these symptoms—the body is on the brink of danger and is crying "halt!"

Booker Washington Issues Statement Regarding Lynchings in South.

Calls on Southern People to Put Dow the Practice and Prevent

Booker T. Washington, president of the industrial and Normal School, has furnished the Associated Press an elaborate scussion of the race question in the form paper by saying that, while it is true that there are cases of lynching and outrage in the northern and western states, candor ompels him to admit that by far the most of the cases of lynchings take place in our

'With all the earnestness of my heart.' he said, "I want to appeal, not to the President of the United States, Mr. McKinley, nor to the people of New York, nor of New England, but to the citizens of our south ern states, to assist in creating such a pub-lic sentiment as will make human life here just as safe and sacred as it is anywhere else in the world."

The paper then offers a review of the ap-peal that has been made through the press and prominent men that the negro problem be left to the south. He recites that the whole country, from the President down, has been inclined to do this. By the policy of non-interference the south has been given a sacred trust. Prof. Washington

Nearly All in the South.

"I fear but few people in the south realize to what an extent the habit of lynching or the taking of life without due process of law has taken hold of us. and to what an extent it is not only hurting us in the eyes of the world, but injuring our own moral and material growth. Many good people in the south, and also out of the south, in the south, and also out of the south, have gotten the idea that lynching is resorted to for one crime only. I have the facts from an authoritative source. During the last year 127 persons were lynched in the United States; of this number 118 were executed in the south and nine in the north and west; of the total number lynched 102 were negroes, 23 whites and 2 Indians. Of this number only twenty-four were charged in any way with the crime of the south.

"Within a period of six years about 900 persons have been lynched in our southern the total number of soldiers who lost their lives in Cuba during the war. If we could lives in Cuba during the war. If we could realize still more fully how far this unfortunate habit is leading us—note the classes of crime during a few months which the local papers and the Associated Press say that tynching has been inflicted for—they include 'murder, rioting, incendiarism, larceny, self-defense insulting women, alleged poisoning, malpractice, alleged barn burning suspensed as heart. tempted murder, horse stealing, mistaken identity, &c.' The practice has grown until we are now at the point where not only blacks are lynched in the south, but white men as well. Within the lest six years at least half a dozen colored women have hear lynched.

"Rather than hear such a remark from one of my little boys I would see him dead.
"There is too much crime among us. The figures for a given period show that in the United States 30 per cent of the crime committed is by perform while we would be seen to the crime committed in the committed in the committed is by perform while we would be seen that the committed in the crime crime committed in the crime committed in the crime crime committed in the crime cr mitted is by negroes, while we constitute only about 12 per cent of the entire population. This proportion holds good not only in the south, but also in northern states and cities. a better record, but we must face these plain facts. DEMOCRATIC FACTIONAL FIGHT. Old and Young Elements in Washington County Are Opposed. ecial Correspondence of The Evening Star. HAGERSTOWN, Md., June 22, 1899.

Washington county democrats are at fever heat over a double-leaded editorial in the Hagerstown Mail, the democratic organ and the only paper of that political faith in the county. After telling in no uncertain terms the men who heretofore shaped the course of the party in this county to stand aside and keep hands off in the approaching campaign, the article makes the sig-nificant statement that "the stalwart, earnest, young element of the party is becoming stronger each year, and will not be longer snubbed and brow-beaten by men who, for a quarter of a century, have occupied the most conspicuous seats on the band wagon, and warned the young men that their time was coming." This is believed to be a thrust at Col. Buchanan Schley and his aspirations for a place on the state ticket this fall, and is looked upon by his followers as a timely warning of a renewal of the old factional fight between the "regulars" or "old-timers," led by the colonel, and the "young element," led by Thomas Poffenberger, the late democratic candidate for Congress from this district. The republicans are elated over this state of affairs in the ranks of their opponents so early in the campaign knowing well what a fight between these factions means.

The proposed new connection of the Reading railroad with the Washington county branch of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at Hagerstown is probably to make the latter a short line from the Cumberland valley to Washington city. The distance is seventy-six miles from Hagerstown to Baltimore by the Western Maryland is eighty-seven miles.

ing a fractious horse to water yesterday evening, and the animal became frightened and ran away, throwing Mr. Casey off on his head and rendering him unconscious. He was assisted home by some neighbors. Dr. Richardson was summoned and dressed his injuries. The Masonic Hall stage last evening pre sented the appearance of fairyland, the oc-sented the appearance of fairyland, the oc-casion being the presentation of an operatta entitled "Changeling," given by the chil-dren of the village under the direction of Mrs. John Baker, for the benefit of the Pinkney Memorial Guild.

The stage was tastefully decorated with different colored bunting, evergreen and ferns. The costumes worn by the children contributed their share to the bewitching scens. The Misses Helberger and Gaichette did some clever fancy dancing. The hall was well filled by an appreciative audience and the affair was a success in every par-ticular.

After the entertainment ice cream and cake were served in abundance.
